“Spook” means Spook Limited. “Directors” means the two Spook founding directors: Martin Luck and Andrew des’ Ascoyne.

Each policy will be reviewed annually and sooner where changes in legislation, business activities or identified risks require it.

01 Purpose

Spook is committed to honest, fair and responsible business conduct. We expect decisions and behaviour to maintain the trust of customers, colleagues, suppliers and other stakeholders.

02 Scope

This policy applies to directors, employees and workers, and to contractors, consultants and other representatives when acting on Spook's behalf.

It covers customer relationships, procurement, sales, service delivery, financial dealings and the use of company information and resources.

03 Responsibilities

Directors will set clear standards, provide guidance and address concerns fairly.

Spook will promote ethical conduct and ensure that commercial pressure does not override legal or policy requirements.

Everyone covered by this policy must act honestly, remain within their authority and seek advice where a proposed action is unclear.

04 Honest dealings and service commitments

Spook will describe its products, services, capabilities, pricing and contractual commitments accurately.

Employees and representatives must not make misleading claims about functionality, performance, availability, certifications, customer endorsements or environmental benefits.

Material errors, service issues and limitations must be escalated promptly and communicated to affected customers where required. Commitments must only be made where they are authorised and can reasonably be fulfilled.

05 Conflicts of interest and fair competition

Actual, potential or perceived conflicts of interest must be disclosed to a director. Examples include personal financial interests in a supplier, outside work that conflicts with Spook's interests, and involvement in decisions affecting relatives or close associates.

The director will determine suitable safeguards, which may include removing the individual from the decision. Individual directors must not decide how their own conflicts are managed.

Spook will compete fairly. Price-fixing, bid-rigging, market-sharing and improper exchanges of competitively sensitive information are prohibited.

Business decisions must be based on legitimate commercial considerations and must comply with Spook's Anti-Bribery and Corruption Policy.

06 People, information and company resources

Everyone must be treated with dignity and respect. Bullying, discrimination, harassment, exploitation and retaliation are unacceptable.

Personal data and confidential information must only be accessed, used or disclosed for authorised purposes. Customer credentials, monitoring information and commercially sensitive material must be protected using appropriate access and security controls.

Spook's property, systems, intellectual property and funds must be used responsibly. Unauthorised access, misuse, theft and infringement of third-party intellectual property are prohibited.

07 Financial integrity and business partners

Records, invoices, expenses and reports must be complete, accurate and supported by appropriate evidence. Fraud, deliberate misrepresentation, tax evasion and the facilitation of another person's tax evasion are prohibited.

Relevant sanctions, export restrictions and other legal requirements must be checked where the proposed activity presents those risks.

Spook will select business partners fairly, assess material ethical risks and communicate relevant expectations.

Agreed payment terms must be honoured, with genuine disputes addressed promptly.

08 Reporting, breaches and review

Concerns should be raised with a director, or the other director where there is a conflict.

Spook will handle reports fairly and as confidentially as practicable. Retaliation against anyone raising a genuine concern or assisting an investigation is prohibited.

Lawful external reporting is not restricted.

Breaches may lead to disciplinary action following a fair process or appropriate contractual action.

Directors will review the policy annually, taking account of concerns raised, business developments and lessons from investigations.
