Spook Limited | Registration number 04630774

“Spook” means Spook Limited. “Directors” means the two Spook founding directors: Martin Luck and Andrew des’ Ascoyne.

Each policy will be reviewed annually and sooner where changes in legislation, business activities or identified risks require it.

01 Purpose

Spook is committed to protecting, so far as is reasonably practicable, the health, safety and welfare of its employees and others who may be affected by its work.

Spook will assess risks, provide appropriate controls, maintain safe equipment and working arrangements, and give people suitable information, instruction, training and supervision.

Spook will consult workers on health and safety and seek continuous improvement.

02 Scope

This policy covers office and home working, business travel, customer-site visits and any installation, maintenance or support activities undertaken by Spook.

Spook will comply with the health and safety legislation applicable to each location, including the Health and Safety at Work etc. Act 1974 in Great Britain and the relevant Northern Ireland framework where applicable.

03 Responsibilities

Directors will ensure that risk assessments, resources, competent advice and appropriate arrangements are in place.

Directors will coordinate assessments, training, checks and corrective actions and maintain relevant records.

Spook must plan work safely and ensure people are competent and properly equipped.

Employees and contractors must take reasonable care of themselves and others, cooperate with safety arrangements, use equipment correctly and report hazards. They must not interfere with safety equipment or undertake work beyond their competence or authorisation.

04 Risk assessment and safe working

Work activities must be assessed before they begin and when circumstances change.

Assessments must identify who could be harmed, the controls required, the person responsible and any outstanding actions.

Controls must reflect the task and the needs of those affected, including disabled workers, new or expectant mothers and young workers where relevant.

Spook must stop work and move people to safety where they reasonably believe there is serious and imminent danger, then report the concern as soon as practicable.

05 Office and remote working

Spook will assess workstation and display-screen risks, address identified problems and provide relevant information on posture, breaks and changes of activity.

Eligible display-screen users will be provided with eye and eyesight tests on request and any necessary special corrective appliances as required by law.

Electrical equipment must be maintained according to risk. Damaged equipment must be taken out of use and reported.

Workload, isolation, fatigue and work-related stress will be considered in risk assessments. Employees are encouraged to raise concerns early so that suitable action can be agreed.

06 Customer sites, travel and physical tasks

Before a site visit, the person arranging the work must establish relevant hazards, access requirements, induction arrangements and emergency procedures with the customer.

Site rules must be followed, but do not replace Spook’s responsibility to assess its own work. Any required method statement, permit, training or protective equipment must be in place before the task starts.

Electrical work, work at height, manual handling and other higher-risk activities must only be undertaken by competent, authorised people using suitable controls.

Lone working must have appropriate contact and escalation arrangements. Business journeys must be planned to avoid fatigue and unsafe driving.

07 Emergencies and incidents

Suitable first-aid, fire and evacuation arrangements must be established for each workplace under Spook's control and communicated to those affected. Visitors and workers at customer premises must familiarise themselves with the local arrangements.

In an emergency, Spook must seek appropriate assistance and contact the emergency services where needed.

Accidents, work-related ill health, near misses and dangerous conditions must be reported promptly to the day-to-day coordinator or responsible director. Incidents will be recorded, investigated proportionately and followed by corrective action.

Directors must ensure that reportable incidents are notified under RIDDOR (Reporting of Injuries, Diseases and Dangerous Occurrences Regulations 2013) or the relevant Northern Ireland requirements.

08 Implementation and review

Before this policy takes effect, the responsible director must complete and communicate the following:

- Named safety coordinator and source of competent advice.
- Workplace and activity risk assessments, with action owners.
- First-aid contacts, equipment locations and arrangements.
- Fire, evacuation and emergency arrangements.
- Lone-working contact and escalation procedures.
- Training, equipment inspection and maintenance arrangements.
- Incident-reporting route and record location.

Directors will review this policy annually and after significant incidents or changes in working arrangements. Deliberate or serious breaches may result in disciplinary or contractual action.
